A TOWERING

STRUCTURE

Mutual Assurance to Erect One Nine Stories High.

PLANS NEARLY COMPLETE

New York Architects Now Drawing Them-Col. Palmer Believes There is Need for at Least Three Modern Office Buildings.

The Mutual Assurance Society of Virginia expects to go the American Bank one better in an office building, erecting theirs at Ninth and Main Streets, nine stories, against the eight stories of the American Bank building, being designed for Tenth and Main Streets.

Colonel W. H. Palmer, president of the City Bank, said yesterday afternoon that plans were now being drawn by New York architects—in fact, were nearly completed—for a modern sky scraper, which would cost not less than $25,000. This is to be a magnificent steel structure, which will hold its head higher than any edifice of any kind between the great Northern cities and Atlanta. It is to have every convenience and the service of janitors, elevators, telephones and other fixtures to be found in a great city's office building.

COULDN'T GET MATERIAL.

Colonel Palmer states that the work of erection would have begun early in this year, but it was found impossible to get the material from the iron workers at any price. The money was not lacking, and the need of several such structures was great. But it was nothing gained to begin a work which could not be completed. The tenants have all been notified now, however, that the present buildings will be wanted by next January 1st.

square.

The front elevation has been designed and gives evidence of the structure's being an ornament and credit to the city. As soon as the general interior pians have been completed they will be brought to Richmond, and insurance agencies and others who may want to lease a section of a floor may have that section partitioned as will best suit them them.

CITY BANK NOT TO MOVE.

Colonel Paimer said he thought it likely that the Mutual would have its offices here, but that the City Bank, which owns its present building, would remain where it is now. He was asked if the erection of the American Bank Building would have any influence upon the enterprise of the Mutual. His reply was: "Not at all. There was room in Richmond and need of several such modern office structures. Atlanta had modern office structures. Atlanta had them and Richmond could afford them, too."

them and Richmond could afford them.

One of the wee of a revolution in office building. The days of a dinky little room, with a coal hod sitting outside the door are nearly past. Two years from now a New Yorker on Main Street, between Fifth and Twelfth, will cell like he was "back in that dear New York." The Virginia State will erect a thoroughly modern structure at Fifth and Main, the Mutual at Ninth and the American Bank at Tenth. The Whityok estate will erect an excellent office building and store at Eighth and Main Streets, and the Life Insurance Society of Virginia is contemplating the erection of a fine office building at Tenth and Streets. tion of a fine officend Broad Streets.

A GARFIELD DYING IN NEW YORK JAIL

Grandnephew of Dead President Consumption Stricken After Wasting Fortune.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, March 2.—After spending

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK March 2.—After spending a fortune of $20,000 in a year, James A. Lyon Garfield, a grand-nephew of the dead President Garfield, is lying ill and penniless in Ludlow Street jall.

As there is no record of the commission of any offense by him, friends of his family have applied to Judge Bischoff, in the Supreme Court, for his release. Young Garfield has lived nearly all his short life in Syracuse, where he now has a widowed mother. He was born in Switzerland while his parents were abroad. A year ago, on attaining his majority, he came into possession of a fortune of $30,000.

In March of last year, while on his way home during the Easter holidnys, he was attracted by a girl in New Haven, who glapeed at him as he passed. He began a filritation with her and an hour later they were married.

He left her the same afternoon, pledging her to keep the marriage a secret until afer he had been graduated from the Taft Preparatory School, which he was then attending. He did not see her again until a month later, and then he faced her in a divorce court, having brought suit to obtain a release from the marriage. After leaving school young Garfield came (6 New York, where he thought he would have better opportunities for the investment of his money. He became connected with a firm in Wall Street, and after the failure of that concern started a bucket shop. About this time he began spending his money recklessly. He appeared imbued with the idea that champagne was drawn from water faucets, and almost bathed in it. He plunged into all sorts of dissipations. The last fifty dollar bill in his pocket was reached last December, and in despair he started South. He was ill and without money and without ability to make money when found by the detectives sent from this city, and was actually starving when they came across him in New Orleans.

The wife of a judge in Syracuse, a friend of the boy's mother, has interested several lawyers in this city, and they are doing all they can to obtain his release from prison in order that he may be permitted to return to his home in Syracuse. It is known that consumption has already claimed him, and they plead that he be permitted to die in his old home.

SENATE SESSION SHORT

Only One Bill is Offered in Upper Branch, and None are Passed-Mr. Sipe Presents Bill for Compos-Ite Confederate Monument.

The Legislature started in upon the week yesterday by putting in a good

The most interesting matter which came up in the House was a bill offered by Mr. Bipe (Republican), of Rockingham, to provide for the srection on the Capitol Square of a composite statue of Lee and his generals. Mr. Sipe's speech in offering the bill was a gem of eloquence, and was loudly applauded by the House. The bill was referred to the Finance Committee, along with one offered by Mr. Toney, of Manchester, to allow cities and towns to lovy an additional capitation tax of $1 for street improvements. The House re-fused to make the congressional reappor-tionment bill a special order, and this is taken to mean that chances are largely against its passage.

A large number of House and Senate bills were passed.

Among the latter was the measure providing for the payment of the costs of prosecuting certain criminal cases removed from the courts of Patrick and Wythe counties to the United States Circuit.

Popes in history, will be celebrated to-day throughout the Catholic world. Here and in many thousands of other places special services will be held and prayers will go forth for the continued, life and prosperous administration of the illustrious Pontiff.

Leo XIII. will unquestionably take a front rank among those who have worn the tiara. A Richmond priest says of him: "He is without doubt one of the greatest Popes in history. The vigor and accuracy of his mind is something remarkable. The title has been well given him by some of 'Leo, the Intellectual.' With the exception of Pius IX. and St. Peter himself, Leo is the only contiff who has reigned twenty-five years. Catholics the world over will celebrate the anniversay to-day."

The Senate proceedings were opened without prayer.

There was barely a quorum of the Senathur on present. No bills were passed and two spressors present. No bills were passed and but one was offered. The sension lasted but one was offered. WEST CHESTER, PA., March 2.—The Rev. Dr. J. D. C. Hanna, partor the Methodist piscopal Church in this place, did not occupy his pulpit Sunday, nor will be to able to attend his church duties for ton days or more. He has been quarantined by the Board of Health because of his heroic action in visiting a girl dying from black smallpox.

Jacob B. Taylor was taken with smallpox ten days ago, and conveyed to the Borough Hospital for contagious diseases. Dr. Addison Rothrock was put in charge of the case. Mr. Taylor's two daughtors, one a school teacher, and the other a stenographer, were stricken with the diseases a few days later, and placed under Dr. Rothrock's care.

The disease developed into black smallpox, and Thursday the father died, The condition of his daughters grow worse, Friday afternoon, realizing that thoy were near death's door they recuested that a minister be summoned, as they were anxious to be baptized and to receive spiritual consolation.

By Mr. Toney: To allow cities and towns to impose additional capitation tax for street improvements.

Mr. Cardwoll, rising to a question of privilege, desired to correct an article which had appeared in an Ashland paper, putting him in the position of seeming to reflect upon the medical profession in a recent speech in the House on the pharmacy bill. He spoke of the doctors in a very happy vein, and declared that he had not meant to reflect in any remote way upon them.

The calendar was then taken up and a number of bills passed.

Colonel S, M. Newhouse, of Culpeper, presided for a while and he displayed sreat tact and skill in wielding the gavel. Mr. Cardwell moved that the Congressional reappointment bill be made a special order for March 10th, and the motion was opposed by Mr. Ryan (Mr. West in the chair) and others, and the motion was lost, only five members voting in the affirmative.
